Box No. V Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-51	YES
	Claims	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1-51	YES
	Claims	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1-51	YES
	Claims	NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

CLAIMS 1-51

None of the citations in the search report, individually or in combination, disclose the features of the claims. Furthermore, none of the distinguishing features over prior art would either be obvious to a person skilled in the art or would merely amount to adding common general knowledge. The claims are, therefore, novel and inventive.

Box No. VII Certain defects in the international application

The following defects in the form or contents of the international application have been noted:

Independent claims 1, 26, 29, 35, 38, 48, 49 and 50 are still seen to be overly broad and speculative, and unsupported by the description. Pages 19-20 of the specification do describe alternatives to pressure-induced phase changes between relaxed amorphous silicon and crystalline silicon. However, these alternatives are presented in generic form only, and there is no enabling disclosure for these alternatives. Hence, there is effectively no support for the broad versions of the invention claimed, and it is still consider that the only described embodiment – that of pressure-induced phase changes between relaxed amorphous silicon and crystalline silicon – needs to be reflected in all claims.

Furthermore, independent claims 1 and 26 do not clearly define the nature of the information storage mechanism. While the manner of removal of the tip is essential to the phase change mechanism described, the prior application of pressure is also a necessity, and the information storage is therefore not seen to be enacted solely by the removal of the pressure.

Similarly, claims 37, 50 and 51 are not fully supported by the description, since they are not characterised by the controlled removal of pressure to create the claimed structures, a feature which (as discussed above) appears to be essential to the claimed invention. Claim 51 is particularly broad and speculative since it is not even limited to a memory device which is what the whole specification is dealing with.
